eKEY for BlackBerry Update

Dear GE Security Customer,

I wanted to provide you with a brief update on our eKEY for BlackBerry product, and tell you about a couple of promotions that are in the works.

First, our eKEY Fob, which is used as part of the eKEY for BlackBerry solution, continues to be in limited supply. Outstanding fob orders are being shipped in the order they are received. Please know that we are working diligently to fill all of your orders.

eKEY for BlackBerry software is now available from our mobile website ekeymobile.com. Visit this site from the device's browser and follow the prompts to download the application. The eKEY for BlackBerry QuickStart Guide provides more detailed instructions for downloading and using eKEY for BlackBerry.

I also wanted to let you know that the Free Fob offer that BlackBerry put together last year will be repeated soon. It will be constructed such that any new BlackBerry device purchased will be eligible for a free fob. More details will follow in the coming days but I wanted to let you know in advance. Details will also be posted on the eKEY Special Offers Page on supraekey.com when the offer has been officially announced.

Finally, GE Security has created an eKEY Device Portal, which sells eKEY Certified Devices at competitive prices. This site is intended to provide your members with a place to find eKEY Certified Devices, without having to worry about if the device will work as an eKEY. Only Certified eKEY Devices are displayed on this website. The site can be viewed by clicking on this link.

Kind Regards,

Greg Russell
